

TampaBay-Job-Links honors the late Jack Roth and his family

The organization honored members of Roth's family – his wife, Dr. Deborah Roth, and daughters Heidi and Lisa Roth – for their contribution in his memory at a private event Saturday, September 12 at the home of Ken and Andi Jacobs.

TampaBay-Job-Link's career services will now be referred to as the Jack Roth Center for Career Development at TampaBay- Job-Links.

The center will continue to provide experienced job search coaching, guidance and support for unemployed and under-employed professionals in the Tampa Bay area, helping individuals to find jobs and gain self-sufficiency.

“Throughout his career, Jack made it a point to meet with people one-on-one to counsel them on their career choices and guide them through job losses,” said TampaBay-Job-Links' Executive Director Sheila Solomon Rudd. “TampaBay-Job-Links is an extension of what Jack did naturally. His leadership and vision still guide us today in everything we do. It was an honor for all of us at TampaBay-Job-Links to be able to honor Jack's family, and his legacy, in this way.”
